

The battle of Monongahela ensues. After hours of fighting and many attempts to shoot Washington, he continues to live on. Red Hawk gives his last-ditch effort to end the life of GW.

RED HAWK

Brothers! Mark the tall warrior.
His men fight like us and not like the fool Redcoats. Aim well and make certain he dies!

---

Red Hawk comes under a flag of peace to meet the warrior that heaven is protecting.

The imposing chief takes a step forward and begins to speak eloquently.

RED HAWK

I am Red Hawk, a chief, and the ruler over many warriors. I travel with the white flag today that I might see the young warrior of the great battle. On that day, when the white men's blood mixed with the streams of our forest, I first beheld this chief.

Now Red Hawk raises his voice as though addressing even the men in Fort Cumberland.

RED HAWK

Listen! The Great Spirit protects this man, and guides his destinies--he will become the chief of nations, and a people yet unborn, will hail him as the founder of a mighty empire!